

HOW to LOVE

Dear Dorris,
why are single people
pitied?
-bubatea

Sometimes it seems that when we are single

we should feel incomplete as though we are expected to be a pair

and if we have no other half, it is easy to feel pitied which can make us feel pitiful.

If you feel this way when you are single a relationship won't fix everything.

Relationships can be lame and being single can be great.

All it takes is an attitude shift to turn you from tragically single to gloriously independent.

When people don't need to be together

it makes it better when they are.

